By Betsy Kraat

EAST BRUNSWICK, NJ--Whitman, New Jersey's leading environmental and engineering management firm, has announced that it will be exhibiting at two important trade shows this fall — the 2009 NJSBA/NJASA/NJASBO Workshop & Exhibition and at the 94th Annual League of Municipalities Conference.

The NJSBA/NJASA/NJASBO Workshop & Exhibition, being held Oct. 28 and 29 at the Atlantic City Convention Center, will serve as a training conference for school officials, attracting board members, administrators, school business officials, district staff and educators from throughout New Jersey. Whitman will be one of the 500 commercial and non-profit organizations that will contribute to an exhibition of the latest educational products, services and technologies.

In November, Whitman will be back at the Atlantic City Convention Center, exhibiting at the 94th Annual League Conference. Held from Nov. 17 to 19, this event is the largest annual gathering of municipal officials in New Jersey. Whitman will join the other 1,500 vendors and exhibit their services to thousands of New Jersey's municipal officials.
