We Can Help

If your business is considering a proactive disinfection/cleaning approach, whether you have been impacted by a positive case or not, Whitman can recommend and coordinate a service company directly to assist with your disinfecting and cleaning needs, with our staff providing verification testing.

Our trained field staff and industrial hygienists can provide:

- ✓ An approved post-cleaning sampling plan based on the area square footage and usage;
- ✓ Monitoring the area with handheld meters which are based on adenosine triphosphate (ATP) bioluminescence measurements. These use relative light units (RLU) to rapidly assess the level of cleanliness of environmental surfaces in healthcare and other settings;
- ✓ Swab sampling of commonly touched items, including desks, countertops, light switches, chairs, keyboards, phones, door handles, faucets, appliances, etc.; and
- ✓ A final report detailing the services and certified laboratory results.

Since there is not an approved testing method currently available to determine the presence of COVID-19 on the abovementioned surfaces, these post-cleaning steps help to determine whether or not any bacteria remain where the virus could potentially attach and become viable.

By adding this step to verify the cleanliness of these commonly used surfaces, it will provide an added layer of confidence for you and your employees that the disinfection process was effective.

Whatever your disinfecting, cleaning and verification needs are, Whitman is here to help!
